Containers

A container holds Modules and defines where they can be placed. When end users are re-ordering and inserting modules into their email, the container controls where they may go.

Specified using either <table>, <tbody>, <thead>, <tfoot> or <td> with class="mktoContainer"

Required attributes
id: How you reference the module within your email template.

Caution

Containers can only contain Modules–if there's anything else present, the Container is considered invalid! Only one container is allowed per template.
